“ As I reflect on Andrew's life, a flood of memories come to mind. Most fondly, the love he had for his family. He would have done anything for us. He was strong both mentally and physically, a real protector of the ones he loved. I know in my heart that I will have him watching over me as my guardian angel until we see each other again. God Bless his Soul, he was a truly wonderful person and a joy to have as a brother.

“ Steve, Gail, Katie, Alexandra, family & friends:
Words seem useless and sincerely inadequate at this time, but I know you feel the outpouring of love that need no words. You all are continually in my prayers.
Not surprisingly, but it was still overwhelming to see at last night's service just how many lives Andrew touched, and just how deeply his friends love him. He was a true friend to Patty. As I stood in the back of the room last night, I thought of the song we learned when we were children, "This Little Light Of Mine". Andrew certainly did allow his light to shine bright to touch others.
I asked Patty what her earliest memory of Andrew was and she said she remembered the time he was digging up worms in the back yard of our house on Riviera Drive when we had a picnic. She was 5, he was 6. I think those worms made a lasting impression, and I know she was glad that he didn't do that when they were older, or at least when she was around.
I thank God for Andrew's time here on earth with us. In our sorrow may we always look to God, our source of strength and comfort, and embrace His promise that we will see Andrew again soon.
Selah.
