“ We always loved our funny, feisty Aunt Faye. I remember when she and our smiling Uncle Jack got married. I think he was a crane operator at the Moxham US Steel plant. I also remember a family Bar-B-Q when my cousin, Jack, Jr., was harassing me and I put him in a head lock and that was a "NO-NO." To help her son, Aunt Faye ran over and jumped on me to free him, and I quickly let him go. I learned one doesn't mess with Aunt Faye's kids. She was fast and strong, but was laughing and smiling very shortly. Marion met Aunt Faye later in life, and liked her very much. Heaven has a new feisty angel now.
